

FECAVA Travel Scholarship 2018

Modern companion animal veterinary medicine increasingly has to be seen in a global perspective. The FECAVA Travel Scholarship initiative supports the appreciation of varying cultures by enabling groups of practicing small animal veterinary surgeons, from different parts of Europe, to visit each other for a few days and observe each other's practice experience. Ideally they will also be able to participate in a joint Continuous Education event.

The scholarship, totalling €2,000 per year and administered by FECAVA, will support the exchange visits between the two groups selected each year. This is made possible through the generous support of LABOKLin, who partner FECAVA on this project.

The recipients of the Scholarship will be announced once a year at the FECAVA Euro Congress.

The deadline for applications for those individual applicants who have not been able to find a matching partner for the Travel Scholarship for 2019 (for visits in 2020) is 30th June 2019.

The relevant FECAVA countries will then help to find a matching partner to create a joint application, which must be submitted by 31st July 2019 at the latest.

Applications by local groups of practicing companion veterinarians, interested in participating, should be sent to FECAVA Head Office (info@fecava.org) copied to Lea Kreszinger (kreszinger@gmail.com) and Dita Stalte (lvbmdzvs@gmail.com) stating their interest in the program, describing the members of their group and identifying three regions in Europe (within FECAVA Member countries) which they would like to visit.

FECAVA will help to find a suitable exchange group of colleagues in these regions in Europe who are interested in hosting their visitors for a few days and prepared to travel to their guests on a return visit. Whilst every effort will be made to accommodate the expressed wish for preferred regions, FECAVA retains the right to offer an alternative region when such an opportunity exists.

The two parties should then submit a joint application by e-mail in English to the FECAVA Secretary, detailing, in not more than 500 words, the exchange participants (names and personal backgrounds), how the exchange will be arranged and the expected learning objectives.

The applicants might have to submit further details or information on request by the awarding committee. All applicants have to agree that their application details can be used in publications of FECAVA or in promotional material of Scholarship sponsor.

All applications will be collected by an appointed FECAVA Director, who will draw up a short list of not more than six joint applications.

A joint committee of the commercial sponsor and FECAVA will choose the recipients of the Scholarship before each annual Euro Congress.

The recipients of the Scholarship will be announced at the Euro Congress and the winner will receive an initial € 1,000,- on condition that the first exchange visit take place no later than 6 months and the return visit no later than 12 months after the date of the announcement.

The further 1,000 € of the Scholarship will be issued on receipt of a report of 300 -500 words in English with photographic documentation of the exchange by the winning two groups. This report will also be made available for publication by FECAVA and the sponsor.

Neither FECAVA nor the sponsor are the organisers of the exchange journeys, and cannot be held responsible for any damage, injury or loss that might occur during the program. The Scholarship is merely meant as financial support for a privately organised and conducted undertaking.

The exact use of the funds of the awarded Scholarship is subject to the judgement and decision of the exchange participants. It might for example be used towards travel expenses, for accommodation cost of the visitors, room hire or similar incidental costs.

An example how the FECAVA Travel Scholarship works:

A group of veterinarians from, for example, Copenhagen makes a good case for an exchange visit to colleagues in Athens. They submit an initial application to the FECAVA Head Office. FECAVA, together with the Greek FECAVA director, locates a group of colleagues from Athens who are happy to host the Danish visitors.

Both parties, comprising four colleagues from each location, agree on suitable respective programmes for the individual visits and apply for the FECAVA Travel Scholarship. Their application includes information on who they are, how they met and how they plan to organise their visits.

Following selection, and granting of the initial funding, the first visit of the exchange takes place with the Greek veterinarians travelling to Copenhagen to stay with their hosts where they spend time in the Danish clinics, observing how a range of different cases are treated in Denmark. A group workshop may also be organised on a specific topic. The opportunity can also be taken to enjoy the social exchange between colleagues and learn something of the location. Within a further 6 months the return exchange of Danish colleagues to Athens takes place with a similar local program. The Scholarship funding can support this by assisting with flight and other incidental expenses.

To obtain the second part of the Scholarship the two parties then prepare a report about their visits, and submit it with suitable photographs to the FECAVA Secretary for publication in FECAVA media and in publications of the Scholarship sponsor.
